Venue

The opening ceremony will begin 11 April, 2011 (10.0 AM) at the Faculty of Science, Mansoura University, Mansoura, Egypt followed by the activities of the conference (Mansoura-Sharm El-Sheikh).

Invitation

On behalf of the organizing committee, we are very delighted to invite you to participate in the 11th International Conference on Chemistry and its Role in Development (11th ICCRD) which will be held at Mansoura/Sharm El-Sheikh, Egypt, April 11-16, 2011.

The conference aims to bring together scientists from industry, universities and research institutes to discuss modern academic and industrial aspects of various fields of development in science and technology of materials. We cordially welcome you to experience all these and have an informative and enjoyable time in Egypt.

Scope

11th ICCRD deals with the following topics of chemistry:

1. Analytical
2. Inorganic
3. Organic
4. Physical
5. Environmental
6. Applied Chemistry (Material Science, Polymer, Petroleum, Radiation, Dyes,...)
7. Biochemistry, Pharmaceutical, Agricultural and Medicinal Chemistry.

Also, there are many meetings and talks in industrial applications and water treatment (Industry Forum; Recent Technical and Environmental Impact).

Sponsors

- Mansoura University
- ISESCO
- Academy for Scientific Research and Technology
- Shouman Plastic Company.

Egypt

Egypt is a country that recapitulates seven thousand years of history and modern civilization culture in beautiful setting. The pyramids stand high and glorious, all guided by the wisdom of Sphinx, and enriched by the flow of river. Sharm El-Sheikh at the red sea is one if not the best recreation resort in the world. The weather in Egypt during April is normally moderate and the temperature in Sharm El-Sheikh is about 30°C.

Mansoura City

The city of Mansoura is the capital of Dakahlia Governorate (population about 5 million) and rests on the banks of the Damietta Branch of the Nile Delta, some 120 km from Cairo and 60 km from the Mediterranean Sea. It enjoys a good weather with seasonal temperatures varying between 12--28°C. Its surrounding landscape is lush and fertile agricultural land. The City is steeped in history.

The meaning of the name "Mansoura" is "Victorious". During the Seventh crusade, King Louis IX of France was captured and incarcerated there in the year 1250. The apartments, where he was held in, have been opened as a Museum, and is called "Dar Ibn-Lokman," which is an interesting tourist attraction.

Today Mansoura is a well-known agro-industrial and commercial center with many of Egypt's major exporting industries within its environs. There is much to do and see in the City of Mansoura, a place which if visited once, you would wish to return to again and again.

Mansoura University

The University campus has an area of more than 300 acres. It comprises the Faculties of Science, Medicine, Veterinary Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Engineering, Agriculture, Commerce, Law, Education, Physical Education, Arts and Nursing.

It has also a general directorate for the welfare of students which includes housing, recreation and dining facilities, university hospital and specialized medical centers. There are also housing facilities for the faculty members and a guest house as well as a club for the faculty members and their families.

Mansoura University has a branch at Damietta which includes Faculties of Science, Education, Physical education, Commerce, Agriculture and Arts.

The total number of students in the university is about 121882. Mansoura University has also about 5,000 post graduated students. The tuition is carried out by 2594 faculty members and about 1982 demonstrators and assistant lecturers.
